

Man as God's Image Sunday's Lesson-Sermon

Job's question, "Shall mortal man be more just than God?" and Paul's admonition, "Come out from among them, and be ye separate, . . . and I will receive you," are drawn to the logical conclusion expressed in Genesis (1:27), "God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him," which is the Golden Text of the Lesson-Sermon on "Man" at all Christian Science services on Sunday. (Job. 4:17, II Cor. 6:17).

Paul, the powerful apostle and teacher, carries the thought of the sermon forward in a reference from II Cor. where he writes, "For ye are the temple of the living God; as God hath said, I will dwell in them, and walk in them, and I will be their God, and they shall be my people" (II Cor. 6:16).

This is correlated with a definition by Mary Baker Eddy from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," "Man is not matter; he is not made up of brain, blood, bones, and other material elements. The Scriptures inform us that man is made in the image and likeness of God . . . Man is spiritual and perfect; and because he is spiritual and perfect, he must be so understood in Christian Science" (p. 475).
